Happy Holidays

"Nature News" from Wild Birds Unlimited at Moana Nursery

The Holiday Tradition of Bird Feeding

One of the greatest parts of the holiday season is how everyone celebrates with their own, sometimes very unique, traditions.

Perhaps you always host a Christmas dinner, or maybe you always go out looking at Christmas lights on Christmas Eve. Maybe your tradition is to open up all gifts on Christmas Eve so you can sleep in on Christmas Day.

One old Scandinavian Christmas tradition is centered on feeding the birds. Many Nordic families offer food to the birds, traditionally a sheaf of grain placed on a pole, fence or rooftop. Those who do not have access to cereal stalks substitute a plate of grain, bread or seeds.

This bird food offering is placed outside on Christmas Eve or Christmas morning as a way to include the birds in the feasting that is taking place inside the home.

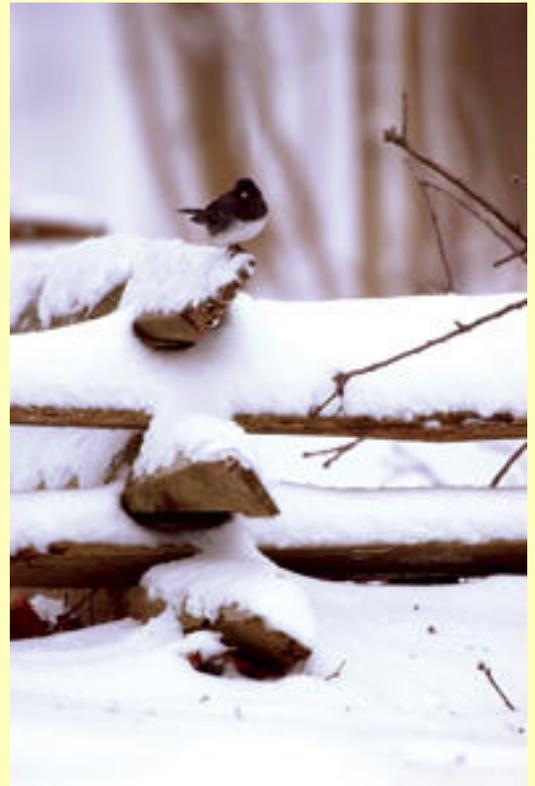

Regardless of what your holiday traditions may be, we want to take this opportunity to thank you for your continued support.

Stop by our store this month and share a bit of the holiday season with us. We have lots of products that make great gifts and some stuff we brought in just for a little while. Take advantage of our bulk suet sale and watch your email for future specials.

If we don't see you, we hope you have a happy holiday and a wonderful New Year!

December "High Desert" Bird-of-the Month: Red-tailed Hawk

This is probably the most common hawk in North America. If you have sharp eyes, you'll see several individuals on almost any long car ride, anywhere. Red-tailed Hawks soar above open fields, slowly turning circles on their broad rounded wings. Other times you'll see them atop telephone poles, eyes fixed on the ground to catch the movements of a vole or rabbit, or simply waiting out cold weather before climbing a thermal updraft into the sky.

Red-tailed Hawks are large hawks with typical Buteo proportions: very broad rounded wings and a short, wide tail. Large females seen from a distance might fool you into thinking you're seeing an eagle - until an actual eagle comes along! Most are rich brown above and pale below with a streaked belly and, on the wing underside, a dark bar between shoulder and wrist. The tail is usually pale below and cinnamon-red above, though in young birds, it's brown and banded. "Dark-phase" birds are all chocolate-brown with a warm red tail. "Rufous-phase" birds are reddish-brown on the chest with a dark belly.

Local Bird Sightings by Jacque Lowery

Our Bird of the Month for December is the Red-tailed Hawk. They are fascinating birds and easily seen almost anywhere in North America.

The Red-tails and other raptors are keeping me entertained right now. The other day I heard some Lesser Goldfinch vocalizing very differently. They were gathering in a tree in the front yard and just kept up this "alarm" call, for lack of a better word. I walked around some willows to get a better look and discovered a little Sharp-shinned Hawk sitting in the tree. Those goldfinch were very brave little birds, as they would be the perfect prey for a Sharp-shinned. He didn't seem to pay much attention to them and soon flew off down the street.
